COLLABORATIVE DECISION MAKING for School Leaders

The TregoED processes are based upon the pioneering research of Ben Tregoe and Charles Kepner. Education leaders from the US and Canada have benefited from the skills taught in this nationally recognized, highly regarded workshop which provides leaders with three proven strategies to more effectively assess and address critical issues:

1. Situation Appraisal
2. Decision Analysis
3. Potential Problem Analysis

Using the three processes taught in this workshop, participants are able to:

- Make well-balanced and effective decisions
- Understand and break down large issues into manageable pieces
- Plan for successful implementation of changes, policies and initiatives
- Build commitment from diverse stakeholders
- Use a shared problem-solving language and approach to enhance communication and outcomes
- Increase transparency, trust and confidence from Boards and communities
- Effectively utilize existing data and information in problem-solving and decision-making
- Use involvement, facts and logic to de-escalate emotions and conflict
